AppXite Platform Release Notes 46

What's new

If you haven't been actively optimizing your product catalog and prices, then it's a perfect time to get started thanks to the new tools we're introducing with this release.

The top 4 things you will be able to do:

- Define customer segments and tailor catalog for type of customer you have
- Tag your products for customers to find what they need more easily
- Manage prices in bulk by creating markups for vendors and custom offer groups
- Run campaigns and visually display special prices

We also introduced a new Settings section and a few extra quality-of-life things to simplify your daily tasks.

Features included in release

ID	Title	Description	Customers
11993	Customer segmentation	Want to show different products to different customers? You can now have a totally separate catalog of available products and categories for each segment you define.	Sellers
12200	Markup for offer groups	Want to adjust price for your "November Promotion" offers or adjust markup on multiple offers in general? Now you can create custom groups of offers and set pricing for these groups! Great new way for bulk price management and campaigns.	Sellers
12799	Mark markups as special price (badge)	Want to promote offers with a special price during your campaign? Toggle "Special price" when you create markup to display a special badge to the customer (works extra well with markups for offer groups)!	Sellers/End-customers
12802	Add custom tags to products	In addition to categories now you can tag products with custom keywords like "promotion", "productivity" etc., which customers can browse and filter by. Use it for catalog management or in combination with "Special price" badge to run campaigns (works extra well with markups for offer groups)!	Sellers/End-customers
12811	Create markups with overlapping future dates	Now you can add new markup on dates for which you had already created markup before. The system will simply ask you to confirm overwriting.	Sellers
